CUSTOM HOME BUILDING

Brad and Cindy Thompson wanted to do something that would bring families together. As the owners of First Choice Custom Homes for the past seven years, they have formed a team that brings vision, efficient building practices and flexibility to the experience of building a custom home.

Homeowners also notice the distinct dynamics Brad and Cindy share. While Brad focuses on recruiting business, using superior building materials and overseeing construction, Cindy utilizes her talent for exterior and interior design.

Together, their hands-on approach plays a vital role in working with homeowners – solving design challenges and creating unique homes.

The Thompsons have impacted many families through their business and cherish the relationships they have built along the way.

Sheryl Merkel, a First Choice homeowner, said that she was 100 percent satisfied with the building process. “It’s just great craftsmanship done by thoughtful homebuilders,” she said.

In addition to building custom homes, the Thompsons love to spend time with their son Anthony, a recent Furman graduate who now lives in Washington, D.C. They also love to travel, fish and take care of Talley Jo, a French bulldog.
